

WAY TO GOD'S PLACE

Poetry on 7 sins

ABSTRACT

In these lines, I have tried to present the desire of a person to have a place in heaven by leaving all the sins behind. Here in first stanza of the poem white's home indicates "heaven" and Red's Home indicates "Hell".

Next stanzas talks about the 7 sins and the punishment that the guilty person is liable to get if he commit any sin.

Way to God' Place!

Entombed under a shielded lead of light
Hanging lamp near the edge of my wrist
Looking for the pace to white's home!
A serene place
Away from Red's home!

Beyond the hubristic pride,
Submerging into the positivistic one
Ain't being broken on the wheel

Beyond avaricious greed
Above, storing heap of treasure
Ain't being boiled alive in oil for all eternity.

Beyond voluptuous Lust
Above the adulterous chaos
Ain't being smothered in fire and brimstone.

Beyond ingrained envy
In the Benevolent flavour of life
Ain't being immersed in freezing water

Beyond gluttonously indulgence
Ignorant to crave for extravagance
Ain't gonna consume toads or rats

Beyond impetuous wrath
To be an ascetic one, a monk
Ain't gonna get dismembered alive

Beyond indolenced sloth
Leading to sedulity for life
Ain't gonna get thrown into a snakepit

Entombed under a shielded lead of light
Hanging lamp near the edge of my wrist
Looking for the pace to white's home!
A serene place
Away from Red's home!
